Managing Complex Litigation 2007:

Legal Strategies and Best Practices in "High-Stakes" Cases

New York City, November 6, 2007

Why You Should Attend

Imagine this: Your client is getting sued repeatedly, in both federal and state court, all across the country. Regulators are also seeking documents and depositions. Whether the legal issues involve the securities laws, intellectual property, antitrust or some other substantive body of law, how are you going to get control of the situation? How will you manage the litigation so that the process itself does not overwhelm your client?

In today's world, "high-stakes" complex litigation often involves a multitude of cross-jurisdictional legal, business and technology issues, requiring specific case management skills and techniques. At PLI's Managing Complex Litigation 2007 program, an expert faculty will provide the most up-to-date intelligence on proven strategies and tools to manage these types of cases.

What You Will Learn

- Update on current legal issues involving complex litigation
- Effective tools and techniques for streamlining the litigation process
- New developments in litigation support: cutting edge e-discovery tools, new options for depositions and trial presentation
- How to handle overlapping civil litigation and government investigations
- The views of in-house corporate counsel
- Ethical issues

PLI's Nationally Acclaimed Course Handbooks
